Empathy Education is one of the most critical educational issues of our time because it is only when students feel emotionally safe and secure in all areas of the school environment …that they will begin to focus and tap into the unlimited potential that lies within each of them. p.8

We must teach young people about practicing empathy, honoring others, and offering support to their peers by offering support ourselves and providing our students with opportunities to express their feelings through words and actions. p.12

D. A. Levine
Teaching Empathy:
A Blueprint for Caring Compassion and Community,
2005