

Our society has seen its men walk on the moon. It has yet to see its children walk with equal pride upon its land. In spite of our great wealth, millions of our children are deprived of adequate nutrition, physical care, and wholesome homes and environments. Many fail to receive the intellectual stimulation, emotional guidance, and opportunities for creative and safe play which they need for healthy development. For some, the consequent damage is irreversible.

From the introduction to:

CRISIS IN CHILD MENTAL HEALTH: CHALLENGE FOR THE 1970'S

The Joint Commission on Mental Health of Children, Inc. Fall, 1969